

America

2024 IMPACT
REPORT

Dear friends,

As I think about the many ways America accompanies people as a media ministry, one memory in particular crystallizes the range of what we do.

This past October, I was in Greece, part of an America Media pilgrimage in the footsteps of St. Paul. On a warm afternoon, I stood on the Areopagus, where Paul preached to the Athenians, and then climbed the Acropolis. (In particular, I will treasure the memory of standing in front of the Parthenon with my mother, who was one of the 40 pilgrims who made the journey with us.) From the top of the Acropolis, I was messaging with colleagues who were in Rome covering the Synod on Synodality and even diving in to do a bit of editing from my phone on a piece about what we had learned about the study group looking at the topic of the women's diaconate.

None of the founding Jesuit editors of America in 1909 would have envisioned editing by smartphone from across an ocean, but it is an evolution of the commitment they made more than 100 years ago to “supply prompt and correct information concerning Catholic interests,” using “telegraph and cable” as needed.

Of course, America's mission goes much deeper than just supplying information. At every level of what we do at America Media, we are building community: in person on pilgrimage, with the universal church by helping people follow the Synod on Synodality and news from the Vatican, with people on the margins hoping to feel more at home in the church, and across all our platforms, by a deep and charitable engagement with a variety of perspectives seeking the common good together.

We know that our readers and listeners rely on us to help them navigate the intersection of the church and the world, and we take that mission seriously. Especially at a time when both domestic and global politics are marked by increasing division and conflict, we renew our commitment to dialogue, reconciliation and the service of justice to which we are called by our faith in Jesus Christ.

This year's impact report highlights the many ways that America carries out that challenging, but ultimately consoling, mission. As ever, we depend on your support both in prayer and through subscriptions and donations to sustain this ministry of the word.

Sincerely in Christ,
Sam Sawyer, S.J.

EDITORIAL

Here are some highlights from the past year. Some of our most popular feature articles demonstrated that God can, indeed, be found in all things. We delved into timely questions around everything from seminary formation to single-sex education to the repurposing of church buildings.

These stories included:

- Colleen Dulle interviewed seminary rectors, students, professors, psychologists and other experts across North America to get a full understanding of seminary formation today and the major changes it has undergone in recent decades.
- Molly Cahill spoke with students and educators who argued that single-sex Catholic schools are uniquely poised to help their students navigate ideas of service, gender, equality and faith in our world today.
- John W. Miller wrote about the many ways church buildings are being repurposed and what these changes mean for the future of the church.
- Kerry Weber looked at the fraught and emotional process of parish closures and mergers across the county, and the way some dioceses are seeking voices from the pews to help guide the process.
- Delaney Coyne explored where Catholic disability ministry is thriving and where it needs to grow.

We worked to help our community process the major news stories of the day through the personal experiences of individual Catholics, and we tried to help make the everyday experiences in our church more meaningful.

- Michael J. O'Loughlin looked at Joe Biden, Pope Benedict XVI and the humility of stepping down.
- Deacon Greg Kandra offered a homily after the first assassination attempt on Donald Trump.
- James Martin, S.J., reflected on his belief in Marian apparitions.
- Emma Camp offered the case for showing up for church, even if you don't believe in God.
- Joe Hoover, S.J., encountered the real presence of the American church at the Eucharistic Congress in Indianapolis.
- Ashley McKinless journeyed to Atlantic City to tell the story of a Mass at a casino, a bishop in a boat and armies of Italian grandmothers.

AUDIO

The audio team capitalized on previous successes and continued to produce informative and enriching audio experiences, including:

“Jesuitical” on Tour! For the first time in its seven-year history, the “Jesuitical” podcast went on tour across the country doing live interviews and events.

Stops were made in Madison, Wis., Chicago, Ill., Washington, D.C., Los Angeles, Calif., and Cincinnati, Ohio. A highlight was the standing-room-only event with Cardinal Wilton Gregory on the Synod, Pope Francis and our political climate.

Other notable “Jesuitical” interviews included Ethan Hawke on his latest film “Wildcat” about the life and writings of Flannery O’Connor, and Paris Olympics gold-medalist and flag-bearer Nick Mead.

“Inside the Vatican” continued the podcast’s documentary-style deep-dive episodes with an explainer on “The Rise and Fall of Archbishop Vigano” and “Why Catholics are Worried about Seminaries and Young Priests.” which set a new all-time record for ITV downloads.

“Preach: The Catholic Homilies Podcast” launched its Lenten series with the Vatican’s chief liturgist, Cardinal Arthur Roche, and started its second season with the renowned preacher and former master of the worldwide Dominican order, now Cardinal-elect Timothy Radcliffe, O.P., who Pope Francis invited to co-lead the retreat for synod members ahead of the Vatican sessions of the Synod on Synodality. Preach’s host, Ricardo da Silva, S.J., attended and reported on the Eucharistic Congress and recorded a panel discussion at the Outreach conference, highlighting the experiences of LGBTQ Catholics.

“Hark! The Stories Behind Our Favorite Christmas Carols” continues to enjoy organic growth, tripling its listening audience in its third season and climbing to No. 11 on the Apple Music Podcasts chart. It also featured some exciting celebrity guests like Greg Boyle, S.J., for “O Holy Night.” and Vanessa Williams for “Go Tell It on the Mountain.” However, the episode with the most runaway success was “The Wexford Carol.” which gained over 12k downloads.

VIDEO

America's videos featured compelling stories, informative interviews and dynamic explainers on issues at the intersection of the church and the world. Highlights include:

A definitive video explainer on the question of women deacons in the Catholic Church, including the history, the impact of synodality and the arguments made on either side of the debate. This is one of the most mature, concrete and consequential discernments alive in the church today, and America's explainer offers a dynamic, high production-value point of entry.

PILGRIMAGES

As part of our travel program, we hosted life-changing pilgrimages to Rome and Assisi. Led by America's Jesuit priests and other well-known Catholic leaders, the itinerary included visits to centuries-old holy sites and Masses in some of the world's most beautiful and sacred churches and chapels. Outreach

Building Community for LGBTQ Catholics

OUTREACH

Outreach, the LGBTQ Catholic ministry founded by James Martin, S.J., in 2022, hosted its third national conference, Outreach 2024, attracting 350 participants, surpassing previous attendance by more than 30 percent and resulting in a waitlist of 70 people. The conference, focused on Building Community for LGBTQ Catholics, drew 12 sponsors, triple the number from the previous year, and was held at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. Cardinal Wilton Gregory, archbishop of Washington, celebrated Mass for the gathering. Survey results found that 98 percent of participants had a very satisfactory or satisfactory experience, and 94 percent plan to attend future Outreach programming.

Michael O'Loughlin, national correspondent for America since 2016, was appointed executive director of Outreach in January 2024. At Outreach 2024, he announced the creation of a regional approach, which will consist of retreats, local gatherings and fundraising events throughout the United States. The next national gathering will take place at Georgetown in 2026.

Earlier this year, Outreach announced a new editorial vision for its website, outreach.faith, which will celebrate, elevate and build up the LGBTQ Catholic community. The most popular series, The Outreach Guide to the Bible and Homosexuality, will be published in book format by Paulist Press.

Thank you for taking the time to read the impact report. The fact that you are reading the report means you are indeed invested in America. You are also part of a community of intellectually curious Catholics who care deeply about their faith, their church and the intersection of both of those things with our country.

I started my tenure here at America in March of 2020. I had just retired from a long career at ESPN and a good friend of mine who knew I was an America reader said they were looking for some guidance with their business. It was divine intervention—at least for me! I am finally stepping down to real retirement in the new year and leaving the business of America in the incredibly capable hands of Heather Trotta, who many of you know from her advancement work.

In parting, I want to make one last plea to you our wonderful subscribers:

Take a trip with us, visit us when you are in NYC, listen to the “Jesuitical” and “Inside the Vatican” podcasts, watch our “People of God” video and tell your friends about America.

The greatest gift you can give someone is the gift of faith. Keep giving it to yourselves and by all means, give it to your family and friends.

I have been a long-time donor to America because of the immense quality and clarity of the journal as well as its depth and analysis of critical issues faced by the Church. America provides a realistic approach, viable alternatives and provides a perspective on issues that people may be confused about.”

Monsignor Alfred LoPinto (President and CEO, Catholic Charities Brooklyn and Queens) has supported America for nearly 30 years.

“America keeps faith and spirituality more at the center of my daily life. As I support America’s mission to help create respectful and loving communities, I support my personal one as well. It’s an investment that I know will pay off abundantly in visible and invisible ways.”

America Media staff, Sebastian Gomes, Sam Sawyer, S.J., Ricardo da Silva, S.J., Gerry O'Connell, and Colleen Dulle gather after mass in Rome while covering the Synod on Synodality.

“America’s pilgrimages have helped bring me back to the Church by creating opportunities to leave our troubles behind and connect with other loving Catholics in sacred spaces.”

Julia Barreto (Orlando, FL) has traveled on America Media pilgrimages to the Holy Land, Lourdes, Spain, Rome and Assisi, and is looking forward to Greece in October 2024.
